Dear All,

I wanted to share some news. This morning, I received a call from Elizabeth who is one of the accountants at Kallman and Co. She shared that a few years ago, I lectured she and Andrew in my office about getting checked by a dermatologist at least 1x per year and to promise me that they would set up an appointment right away. Remembering that a few years ago, I buried one of my best friends after he died from melanoma and I had a bout with it myself, she said that the impassioned plea made an impression even though neither of them heeded my advice.

Sadly, in mid October, Andrew was diagnosed with Stage 4 melanoma and given months to live. Over the Thanksgiving weekend, he passed away. While everyone on this e-mail was touched by the man with such a fine personality and creative tax head, I hope you take a moment to remember what you have (life) and will keep a reminder in your calendar to get a check up by a dermatologist once per year.

Sincerely,

Kyle
